

LET THEM OUT

White Inmates of Hopkins County Jail Made Their Escape Friday Morning.

THREE OF THE PRISONERS RE-ARRESTED NEAR KELLYS STATION.

Some of the prisoners sawed through the window of the Madisonville jail between midnight and day Friday night and released five white prisoners. They are Jeff Morgan, charged with the murder of Perd Lutz in Madisonville a few months ago, John Hall, charged with having been an accomplice in the same murder; Lewis Wilbert, charged with the murder of Gus McIntosh at Mannington about a year ago; Lee Abbott, who is alleged to be wanted in several different States on sixty-five charges of forgery; Otha Armstrong for housebreaking.

The delivery was made by some one cutting two window shields on a back window and it is believed that the work was done by persons outside. A number of negro prisoners who were locked in their cells failed to escape. Those making their escape were not in their cells.

LATER.

Otha Armstrong, the boy who was in the Madisonville jail awaiting to be sent to the house of correction and who escaped with the other prisoners Thursday night, was caught near Kellys station Sunday night by Sheriff Ashby. The boy says the escape was made Thursday night about seven o'clock instead of between midnight and day Friday morning as was surmised. He says that Laws, the forger, and himself first went to Victoria mines and from there came to this place on a freight train. From here Laws rode blind baggage on 54 going north and Armstrong went to his aunts near Kellys.

He also says that a yellow negro wearing a long overcoat brought the saws to Laws several days before the work of sawing out began.

One of the prisoners acted as lookout while the work was going on and most of the work was done by Morgan. After a hole had been sawed in the back end of the cage large enough to permit, the boy was put through and opened the cage door from the outside and let the others out. He says Laws tied the saws to a broom handle and did the sawing of the window. They then quietly made their escape after having given Garth Thompkins, the condemned negro murderer, the tools and saws. Investigation shows that Thompkins had been trying to use the saw.

The place in the back of the cage where the boy says the sawing was done was found and also the window tied with strings to prevent detection. No tools were found on Thompkins and he is supposed to have passed them to a confederate on the outside.

Since writing the above we learn that County Attorney Ruby Laffoon and ex-Sheriff Burt Stanley succeeded in capturing two more of the escaped prisoners Tuesday afternoon. They were John Hall and Jeff Morgan and were caught at the home of Hall's brother near Providence. The men were stripping tobacco at the time of their capture. A reward of $450 had been offered for their capture as they were both under indictment for murder.

CIRCUIT COURT ADJOURNS.

Long Term of Hopkins County Court Comes to an End at Last.

Circuit court that has been going on so long in Madisonville adjourned Saturday until the May term. Judge Flen Gordon and State's Attorney Jno. Gray are now in Princeton holding court in Caldwell county.

The following prisoners received sentences Friday:

Garth Thompkins, (col.) murder, death.

Charles Bryant and Elmer Merritt, the two negro boys charged with stealing and suspected of setting fire to the McCulloch block, were sent to the house of correction.

George Morgan, (col.) charged with malicious cutting, was sent up for two years.

Prvor Couch, robbery, five years in the pen.

Will Tally, (col.) malicious shooting, three years.

George Bone, horse stealing, two years. He was convicted of stealing a horse from W. S. Barnett.

The prisoners will not be taken to Eddyville at present as they have all been vaccinated.

Surprise Party.

A number of the friends of Miss Pansy Rule gave her a surprise Saturday night. The surprises gathered at the postoffice and went in a body gathering force and strength as they progressed. When they reached the house there were about twenty-five excited children eager to have a good time. Mrs. Rule threw open her hospital doors (having been warned what was coming) and for two hours the children had the time of their lives. After they had grown weary of games refreshments were served and at a reasonably late hour the merry party came to an end.

House at Hecla Burns.

The residence of Cordie Hale, who lives near Hecla, was burned Sunday afternoon while the residents were away from home. Mr. Hale and family had gone to visit a neighbor and in some manner the house caught fire and was consumed before they returned. The neighbors managed to save a portion of the household goods. It is thought the coal fell from the grate and in this manner ignited the floor.

Married in Nashville.

Mr. James McGrath and Miss Noonan were married in Nashville last Thursday. Mr. McGrath is an engineer on the Henderson division of the L. & N. and is well known in Earlinton. Miss Noonan is an estimable young lady and has quite a number of friends. The B&N in conjunction with their numerous other friends extends congratulations.

Mrs. Ingram Entertains.

Mrs. Samuel Ingram entertained at her residence on Main street Saturday afternoon in honor of her little niece, Miss Lucille Brandenburg. Quite a number of guests were present and after playing a great many interesting games the little ones were served with appropriate refreshments which they greatly enjoyed.

Summers-Marland.

Joe Summers, of this city, and Miss Rosa Marland, of St. Charles, were quietly married at that place Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock by Rev. Pryce Gatlin, of Madisonville. The happy couple have the best wishes of their friends.

EARLINGTON

WRITTEN FOR THE BEE BY HUGH G. BARD

Earlington is in the lead. She has all a town can need. Earlington my Earlington. As any one can plainly see.

She has the useful energy And keeps as busy as the "Bee" Earlington my Earlington.

In her hills lie wealth untold. The very finest veins of coal. Earlington my Earlington.

All from slate and sulphur free Better coal one cannot see. Just as good as it can be. Earlington my Earlington.

She is called the poor man's town And she helps the man that's down. Earlington my Earlington.

Her people wear a happy smile Free from treachery and guile And she's improving all the while Earlington my Earlington.

Her daughters are both kind and fair. Lovely some beyond compare Earlington my Earlington.

Mothers, wives, jewelers rare Each perform their humble share And make life's burden less to bear. Earlington my Earlington.

When the East begins to glow. Hundreds to their labor go. Earlington my Earlington.

With happy and contented mind They are always found in line. Better men as one can find. Earlington my Earlington.

Some day she'll be the largest town On old Hopkins county ground. Earlington my Earlington.

Here where we hear the whistles blow From the shops and shafts also. Here is where we make things go. Earlington my Earlington.

LOCOMOTIVE BLASTS

The Louisville and Nashville has given public notice that it will issue no more passes or free transportation to city, county or state officeholders. This starts a movement which may become general.

Fireman J. W. Hockney has resigned from the St. Louis division.

Says the Railroad Herald for February, "Did you ever stop to wonder whether it pays to let section men pump an old hand-car that takes two-mule power, for several miles, before starting work? Will they do as much work after they get there as tho there was a little gasol?" They don't cost very much and it might save money. It is worth thinking over at any rate."

A. P. Bassemir has been appointed foreman of the car cleaners at night at Evansville. Mr. Bassemir is promoted from road master.

English railroads claim that not a single passenger was killed for a year and the list of accidents to employees surprisingly few.

An accident that might have resulted seriously occurred to conductor Eugene Carneal at Manitou on work extra recently. One of the section men on top of a car of cinders dropped a wrench to the ground, which struck Mr. Carneal on top of his head, inflicting an ugly wound.

Switchman J. A. Crawford fell from a car at Guthrie not long ago, injuring himself to some extent.

Last Saturday Leon Galoway, while walking along the track near Vaughns, between Howell and Henderson, came near losing his life. He was very much under the influence of liquor. When train 1st 58 came upon him at thirty miles an hour, Galoway

BRUTUS CLAY APPOINTED MINISTER TO SWITZERLAND.

Leslie Combs Will Continue in Office as Minister to Guatemala.

Washington, March 6.—The nomination of Brutus Clay, of Kentucky, son of Cassius M. Clay, to be Minister to Switzerland, was sent to the Senate today by President Roosevelt. There will be no opposition in the Senate, and a speedy confirmation is looked for. The office pays $7,500 a year.

Contrary to newspaper reports, the President has no intention of sending the name of Leslie Combs to Senate for re-appointment as Minister to Guatemala. It is understood, however, that Mr. Combs will be continued in office. As he is already in Federal service, it is not necessary to go through formality of re-appointing him.

White Plains Shooting.

As a result of a pistol fight at White Plains, near this place, Saturday afternoon Walter Hanks is lying at the point of death. He and a companion, Marion Allen, had been to Norville and returned on the local freight late in the afternoon. On reaching White Plains Hanks became involved with a boy named Moore and Allen taking the boy's part so enraged Hanks that he pulled a pistol from his pocket, but before he could use it Allen shot him inflicting a serious wound from which it is not expected he will recover.

staggered against the pilot of the engine and was knocked quite a distance. Luckily, the injuries he sustained were not serious. Truly, whisky is the key to an unsteady gait.

The following story was told by Mr. Inkerman Bailey of Madisonville, recently while passing through Robards on his way to Evansville: "I never pass through this place without thinking of a most laughable incident that occurred on one of the night trains some six or eight years ago. The story was told to me by a friend, who was one of the passengers. Arriving at Robards, the flagman pushed open the door, hurriedly, stuck in his head and shouted "All out for Robards!" then slamming the door shut. The passengers, all of whom were about half asleep, understood the announcement to be a warning to "Look out for robbers," and accordingly grabbed for their pocket-books and other valuables, and sought to hide them under their seats, and a good many of the passengers tried to get under the seats themselves." Had the flagman entered about that time he would have thought for a moment that everybody had gotten off at Robards.

Brakeman R. L. Kniffin was struck on the head on the 2nd on the St. Louis division while attempting to shut a car door which had jumped out of the slide on top, and fell off.

The engineers it was necessary to borrow from the South and North to help out on the Henderson division during the rush, have been relieved, and have returned to Alabama.

Dispatcher Ed. Brooks, who has been visiting in Texas and Old Mexico for several weeks, returned home Sunday night.

Holds Remarkably Successful Revival at McLeansboro, Ill.

McLeansboro, Ill., March 5.—A religious revival of more than usual intensity is now in progress in this city. During the presence of Evangelist W. C. The religious were started the first week in January, and has constantly grown in strength.

REAR END COLLISION.

Freight Train Collides With Switch Engine Near No. 11 Mine.—Crews Escape Injury.

Last Friday morning about 7:10 o'clock as one of the switch engines was doing some work at the coke ovens near No. 11 mine No. 73, a chain gang freight from the north in charge of Engineer Courtney and Conductor Ed. Cunningham, collided with the engine during the fog prevailing at that time and both crews had a narrow escape from serious injury.

Foreman Joe Brinkley and crew had finished their work and as a precaution sent out a flagman before pulling out on the main track so they could come up into the yard. Engineer Courtney did not see the flagman in time to stop and collided with the switch engine.

Engineer Leonard Huff and fireman jumped when they saw that a collision was inevitable and escaped injury. Little damage was done to the engines and trains were delayed for only a short time.

Claude Laffoon Accidentally Kills Himself.

Claude Laffoon, the storekeeper at Daniel Boone mine, accidentally shot and killed himself at that place Saturday. He had a pistol in his pants pocket and was stooping down to pick up some. Assistance was at once summoned and medical attention given him but to no avail. He died Sunday morning after considerable suffering.

CANNOT SUE COUNTY.

Court of Appeals Decides W. A. Hardwick Cannot Recover Damages Because of Bridge Accident.

The Court of Appeals yesterday upheld the decision of the Hopkins Circuit Court in the case of W. A. Hardwick against John R. Franklin. Hardwick sued for damages for injuries sustained by the falling of a county road bridge. Franklin was commissioner to repair the bridge. The decision says:

"The rule in Kentucky is that a county is but an integral part of the State and the Fiscal Court is part of the machinery of the State Government, no action lies against the county or the Fiscal Court or the Judge or Justices composing it for injuries done to a traveler by the falling of a public highway and under control of the Fiscal Court, although they were guilty of gross negligence in failing to keep it in repair."

It's actually true; the ladies become so enraptured when looking through our Embroideries as to result in disturbing not only their own but their husband's slumbers (thanks to Miss Browning's superior tastes). While it is ever our object to select that approaching nearest "the divine" in these, as well as lace, we must disown malice abroad in this instance. Beg pardon, gentlemen.

"PARSIFAL"
Wagner's Great Dedication Play Will Be Sung at Nashville.

IDENTICAL CAST FROM THE METROPOLITAN OPERA HOUSE, NEW YORK.

It will be welcome information for the music lovers of Nashville and neighboring cities, that Mr. Heinrich Conried, president and managing director of Grand Opera at the Metropolitan Opera House, New York, has arranged for one performance of Richard Wagner's Dedication play "Parsifal" at the Vendome Theatre, on the evening of Saturday, April 29th, following exactly the manner having vogue in the Metropolitan Opera House, New York, the curtain will rise on Act I at 7 o'clock in the afternoon, and be rung down again at 6:45. Then follows intermission of an hour and a half for dinner, or until 8:15, when Act II will begin, and the whole end at 11 o'clock or thereabouts.

The entire production will be on the same scale of musical, dramatic and scenic splendor, as has been so lavishly acclaimed in New York City. The cast will be identical. The orchestra will be in charge of Mr. Alfred Hertz, who has conducted every Metropolitan performance of "Parsifal," while the scenery will prove a revelation, since it has been painted in Vienna specially for the occasion.

It is not too much to say that "Parsifal," as given under the personal direction of Mr. Conried, is the operatic sensation of a century, and admittedly overtops the best that Europe has been able to present, even in that Wagnerian fortress, Bayreuth.

This undertaking is the most notable one ever planned by any organization presenting Grand Opera, and involves expenditure so colossal, that only the most important cities of the great West and South can be visited.

Orders from persons living outside of Nashville will be given particular attention, and for their convenience, the various railroads are arranging for special excursions. Applications for seats will now be received at the Vendome Theatre by Mr. Douglas Powell, the local manager. Prices as follows: Orchestra, $8.00; Orchestra Circle, $8.00 and $7.00; Dress Circle, $6.00 and $5.00; Family Circle, $5.00; Gallery, $2.00.

CANNOT STOP TRAINS.

Court of Appeals Decides for Railroad Company in Hopkins County Case.

PASSENGERS FOR LOCAL STATIONS MUST RIDE ON LOCAL TRAINS.

The following opinion is interesting to the whole traveling public: Court of Appeals of Kentucky, March 3, 1905.—J. L. Hancock, appellant, vs. Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company, appellee. Appeal from Hopkins Circuit Court. Opinion of the court by Judge O'Rear. Appellant bought a ticket for a continuous passage over appellee's railroad from Clarksville, Tenn., to Slaughter Station, in Hopkins county, Ky. Clarksville and Slaughter are on different branches of appellee's system, necessitating a change of cars by passing between those points at Guthrie. When appellant arrived at Guthrie he left that train and had to wait for one going north on the Henderson division, due to stop at Slaughter. The first passenger train that came along that way was the fast express from Nashville to Henderson, which was not scheduled to stop at Slaughter. Appellant sought passage on it, but was told by the train crew that it did not stop at his station, and they could not stop for him. He boarded the train notwithstanding, and offered to pay the conductor additional fare to Seltree, a stopping point, west of Clarksville, Tenn., also a stopping point for this train. The conductor declined to accept that ticket for any purpose on that train, and appellant was ejected at Guthrie. The Circuit Court directed a verdict for the railroad at the close of plaintiff's evidence.

Common carriers may make reasonable rules for running of their trains. It is a reasonable rule that provides a local train for stopping at stations, and through trains that stop only at populous places and at greater distances apart. These through trains are expected to carry passengers intending to continue their journey on other connecting roads. The volume of such traffic is considerable. The interests of such passengers are certainly entitled to as much consideration as those of others. In order to make fast time, the best connecting train on time and to expedite the passenger traffic of a large system, such fast through service is deemed indispensable. It would be unreasonable and unjust to compel the carrier to disarrange its schedule and jeopardize its train and lives of its passengers and servants by compelling the carrier to stop trains at any station, although the train is not scheduled to stop there, or to alter its schedule, or as trains so scheduled are not expected by train dispatchers and the operatives of other trains at non-scheduled points, the movements of other trains are regulated with this fact in mind; therefore, if any passenger could compel a change of schedule stops, many times at places where there was not a telegraph station, there would be great danger of collision by other trains coming on unexpectedly.

A passenger purchasing a ticket for transportation to a station on the carrier's line contracts to take his passage on a train scheduled to stop at that point. Nor can the carrier be required to alter the contract by substituting another for it. As between the passenger and the train conductor, the ticket is the sole evidence of the contract. A train conductor is not authorized to accept the fare from a passenger to a station not scheduled for a stop by his train. He cannot, upon the same principle, accept a ticket from a passenger to a point not scheduled for his train to stop. It is contrary to the rules for operating through trains for conductors to do either. They cannot confer rights by their known duties to other passengers, to the employer and to the public. Nor can they vary the contract already made between the carrier and the passenger so as to cause the latter's right to flow in a different channel. Appellant did not offer to pay the fare to Seltree or Madisonville. He showed no right of action against the carrier. The non-suit was properly ordered. Judgment affirmed.

MINING NOTES.

Estimate of Coal Mined.

Prof. C. J. Norwood, State Inspector of Mines, has just completed his estimate of the coal output in Kentucky for last year, showing that there was a total of 7,089,524 tons mined. These are divided into three inspection districts, and in the western inspection district there were 4,108,617 tons; southeastern, 2,414,602 tons; northeastern, 566,305 tons. This includes all the commercial mines in the State.

The Caney Fork Coal Company of Webster county, made its first shipment last week. This company was only recently incorporated and Mr. F. M. Baker, of Dixon, is one of the stockholders.

The Rock Spring Spring coal mine, near Wheatcroft, Webster county, which has been idle for sometime, will resume operation in a few days.

Harry Myers, of Graham, visited his parents here Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Magenheim, of Graham, Ky., visited relatives near here this week.

A dispatch from Wheatcroft, Ky., says:

The legal battle over the possession of the houses occupied by the miners between the striking union miners of this place and the Wheatcroft Coal and Mining Co., has resulted in a victory for the company. The suits arose over the attempt of the company to eject the striking miners from the houses owned by the company.

Mr. Hiram Davenport is in St. Charles where he is assisting the St. Bernard carpenter force in constructing a new tippie.

Foreman Thomas Longstaff, of Shamrock mine, visited his family here Sunday.

Mr. Henry Harris is acting foreman at Arnold mine while Foreman Jno. Rule is on the sick list.

Owing to some repairs being made to the machinery at the air compressor Tuesday No. 11 mine was idle.

Foreman Jno. Rule, who has been ill for several days, is improving.

It is reported that Messrs. Rash and Denton, who recently opened a coal mine near Robards, Henderson county, are making arrangements to dispose of their property.

Mr. Steve Aaron, of Providence, was here Tuesday on business.

A change of the machine men has been made at No. 9 mine. An additional crew has been added making three shifts now at this mine. Instead of working ten hours as the two shifts have done heretofore, each shift will be relieved at the end of eight hours.

PEOPLE TALKED ABOUT

SEEMS to be a lot of excitement on in Missouri among the Republicans over the United States senator they are going to have," said Representative Payne of Missouri. Representative Champ Clark of Missouri.

"How can you blame them?" asked Clark. "It's the first chance they have, and he became a post. One man in the west who was confident President Roosevelt would carry Missouri was Representative James A. Tawney of Minnesota, who was in charge of the speaker's bureau of the Chicago branch of Republican national headquarters."

Tawney talked about Missouri going Republican until "School Days" in the morning. On election night the clerks in his business gave him a set with diamonds, but in place of the large diamond that should be in the center there was a hole.

"What's this hole?" asked Tawney, after he had expressed his thanks.

"Oh," said the clerks, "we'll fill that with a diamond when Missouri goes Republican."

"And," said Tawney, telling the story with great glee, "you should have seen them clutch their purses for enough money for that diamond along about midnight."

John Kendrick Bangs, the humorist, whose new comic opera, "Lady Teazle," has been favorably received, based the opera on Richard Brinsley Sheridan's "School for Scandal."

"What sort of thing is this 'Lady Teazle' of yours?" inquired a friend.

"Well," replied the author, "it's a good deal like the battle of Winchester."

His friend stared. "Why like the battle of Winchester?"

"Because," explained Mr. Bangs, "Sheridan is about twenty miles away."

Mr. Bangs was taking a ride not long ago on one of the public coaches which offer to out of town visitors a sight-seeing tour of New York. As the coach proceeded up Fifth avenue the guide called out through the megaphone the names of the principal points of interest along the route.

Mr. Bangs listened with lively interest. "But why," he remarked in an aside to the guide, "don't you point out some of the well known people who are passing in the street? There goes Chinney Dewey, for instance, and a little in front of him is Herr Conrad, the opera director."

The guide adopted the suggestion. At the end of the trip he inquired of a friend who his well informed passenger might be and learned that he had talked with John Kendrick Bangs, "famous for his 'Tidbit at Home.'"

Some days later Mr. Bangs was walking down Fifth avenue when the coach passed him in the street. A moment after the guide's stentorian tones sounded through the megaphone, "And there on the west sidewalk goes John Kendrick Bangs, the famous founder of the Bloomfield service."

UNITED MINE WORKERS
Expect to Spend Three Weeks in Convention at Louisville.

The annual convention of United Mine Workers, district 23, met in Louisville Tuesday morning and J. D. Wood, secretary treasurer, says it will continue for three weeks.

The annual election of officers will be taken up Saturday and there are numerous candidates. C. W. Wells and C. Barnaby both want to be president. W. E. Hicks and Geo. Baker, both of Central City, want to succeed John Wood and carry the money bag. Wood favors Hicks and is reported to have bitterly attacked Hicks' record at the first day's session. There are other candidates and scuffling seems to be in the air.

"VICTIMS OF ACQUITTAL."

A New York reporter, Mr. Frank W. Mack, who has for years "studied the desperate and hopeless face" of a man, when prosecuting attorney and police have ruined by over zealous prosecution on a mistaken charge of murder, thinks these acquittal victims should be indemnified by the state. He is endeavoring to secure legislation along this line in the state of New York. He argues that under present laws "it is fair to say that toward the man found 'not guilty' the public is less enlightened and humane than it is toward the convicted criminal;" and further, that there are various Christian institutions ready to give the ex-convict a lift but nobody to help the ex-suspect. Mr. Mack writes in Everybody's Magazine:

"The plight of an acquitted 'murder prisoner' is nothing duplicate or parallel in human affairs. The acquittal verdict of a murder jury is a confession by the state that the jury itself had no valid ground for existence, that the judicial machinery had slipped a cog, that officials too careless or too eager had clutched a victim instead of a culprit.

"And the freed 'suspect' the acquitted man? Stripped and broken, bruised by foul handling, seared by suspicion, pallid from death's shadow and seared as by hell-fire, the acquitted man stands dumbly impotent of moral redress or physical indemnity. And the public, having seared him as a vicious sacrifice, expects him to be thankful because it did not kill him."

He calls attention to the fact that the victim of acquittal "is compelled to share with the state the money cost of his own trial." And he tells some vivid truths in describing the manner of the "prosecution."

"A man accused of murder confronts persecutors who bring to their vain efforts an implacable purpose to build or preserve a personal reputation. So horrid is the charge and so keen is the hunt, that the prisoner is driven to his utmost resource. He may no longer rely upon presumptive innocence, for innocence has been and may again be strangled by circumstantial evidence. He enters upon a defense which becomes practically a deadly trial by the accused to prove himself innocent. Along with his name, his pride, and his life, he loses his own fortune or pittance, and possibly the possessions of his friends."

What a fearful and truthful picture. Who may read this intense arraignment of prosecuting lawyers, who take up a case with "an implacable purpose to build or preserve a personal reputation," and not realize the fearful truth that the chosen representative of a Commonwealth's justice and dignity usually forgets, in prosecuting her citizens, that his duty is as great to protect the innocent as to prosecute and convict the guilty.

New Trial Refused.

Judge J. F. Gordon refused to give Garth Thompson, the negro murderer, a new trial and gave his written opinion in writing in a clear, concise manner. Thompson was sentenced to be hung May 28th, but as an appeal will be taken it is hardly probable that he will be hung at this time.

KUROPATKIN ON THE DEFENSIVE

The Japanese Are Now, Apparently, Masters of the Situation.

THE RUSSIAN CENTER BROKEN

Kuropatkin Threw Away His Opportunity at a Critical Moment, and Let the Desperate New Contingents Him.

In St. Petersburg it is generally believed that Gen. Kuropatkin was yesterday fighting a rear guard action to cover his retreat, and that the night will have witnessed a large withdrawal of troops toward the Pass. All of the commander-in-chief's ability, it is considered, will be required to extricate his army from its present predicament. The issue, it is expected, will be decided today, and a great deal negatively depends on the comparative ability of the opposing armies to resist the effect of hunger and fatigue, the heart of human endurance having evidently been nearly reached on both sides. Beyond the statement that the casualties exceeded those of the battle of Tientsin, there is little known as to the number killed or wounded. Reports are current in Tokio that the Russians are in retreat and preparing to destroy the railway north of Mukden.

Gen. Kuropatkin is said to have gone to Fushan after holding a council of war of 100 officers. He left a rear guard, consisting of 20,000 picked troops, and is retreating.

Chinese report that Mukden has been completely evacuated, and that its great magazines were set on fire by Japanese artillery.

St. Petersburg, March 7, 10 p. m.—The Russian center is broken, according to to-night's dispatches from the east. The messages are not official, but rest on good authority, and are generally credited, even at the war office. The officials admit that the latest tidings, if confirmed, leave no doubt that Gen. Kuropatkin has suffered an overwhelming defeat.

The successful offensive move against the Japanese was an utter failure was learned earlier in the day. Unconfirmed reports are in circulation that the Russian retreat has already begun and that it amounts to a rout. Russian Losses Severe.

The Russian army is declared to have lost 12 heavy siege guns in the last few hours fighting. There seems no doubt that Generals Nogai and Kuropatkin have lost the pass and that the czar's force is completely surrounded.

Gen. Kuropatkin is believed to have lost his only opportunity yesterday. He has no hope now but to fight his way through the Japanese lines. With his crushed and disorganized army no one believes that he can accomplish this. At the best he can save but a remnant of the body of nearly 40,000 men which he engaged the enemy ten days ago.

Nogai Turned the Tide.

Yesterday afternoon the tide of battle undoubtedly swept favorably for the Russian arms. Forced marches, short rations and 48 hours of continuous fighting without sleep had cut down on Oyama's men, and the Russian attack on the left center of the Japanese encountered but feeble resistance. The way was open for Kuropatkin to break through, but as he was about to hurl his reserves into the breach he had succeeded in making Gen. Nogai, the hero of Port Arthur, saved the day for the Japanese.

Gen. Nogai's Foot Cavalry. Leaders of Oyama's predicament, Nogai aroused his "foot cavalry" as his swift-moving column has come to be known, and made such a determined attack on Gen. Kuropatkin, in command of the crippled Russian right wing, that the latter's position became so perilous and Kuropatkin was unable to send his reserves against Oyama, for fear their service might be necessary to check the advances of Nogai.

The Momentary Hesitancy Proved Fatal to Kuropatkin's Hopes of Breaking the Japanese Line.

The momentary hesitancy proved fatal to Kuropatkin's hopes of breaking the Japanese line. To-day the Japanese speedily recovered the ground that they had lost, so that now Kuropatkin is again entirely on the defensive.

THE BATTLE OF MUKDEN.

Believed It Will Go Into History as One of Russia's Defeats. St. Petersburg, March 8, 2:15 a. m.—The battle of Mukden will go down in history with Liao-Yang in the long list of Russian defeats. It is the almost universal belief in pessimistic circles in St. Petersburg, which has forgotten the meaning of the word victory. The war office does not admit that the issues of the great battle, which already exceeds in magnitude of operations and losses that of Shinko, has been decided, although it is positively stated in high quarters that Kuropatkin has telegraphed to Emperor Nicholas that it will be impossible to hold Mukden, and that the withdrawal of his army northward has already been begun.

Both sides are terribly exhausted by ten days of continuous fighting, and all correspondents at the front intimate that the issue must be definitely decided today.

At the military clubs here Gen. Kuropatkin is already regarded as beaten.

the only question being his ability to execute a retreat. Those who believe there is still a chance of actual Russian victory are few and far between. Gen. Kuropatkin's critics among military men are increasing in number, the burden of complaint being that in every action he has shown a lack of initiative. With defeat now, whether disastrous or otherwise, they declare his star will set. On the other hand, it is believed that Field Marshal Oyama's daring strategy, if successful in this battle, will entitle him to rank as one of the greatest captains of the age.

DESPERATE FIGHTING GOING ON.

Report From Russian Source Tells of the Desperate Battle.

Mukden, March 7, 4:35 p. m.—Fighting of the fiercest kind, which is likely to decide the fate of the battle which has been in progress for ten days, began at dawn, and has continued uninterruptedly up to the present time on a front 14 miles long west of the railroad and on a line with the Shinko river. The Japanese also have made a desperate attack on Bentshan-pu, and reports are arriving here that fighting was renewed at Mukden on the extreme left of the Russian army.

Both Sides Fighting Desperately. Both sides are fighting with desperation to the westward, though the troops are well nigh exhausted. The issue of the battle may depend largely on the relative physical condition of the rank and file. In its main features the combat is very much like that at Liao-Yang, and if the Russians should be able to crush the flanking force, victory may be regarded as won. The losses in the ten days of battle on both sides are already far greater than were the casualties in the battle of Liao-Yang, and are likely to increase as the days pass before the issue is fully decided.

Japanese Repulsed.

Beginning at two o'clock this morning the Japanese made a desperate attack on Gen. Tserptsky's division on the west from south Mukden, repeating the assault at intervals of two hours with constant reinforcements. About 50,000 Japanese with 200 pieces of artillery participated. All the attacks were repulsed, there being enormous losses on both sides. One extremely important position changed hands several times. Finally Gen. Tserptsky, on horseback, placing himself at the head of his troops, led his regiments to the attack with colors flying and bands playing. The attack was successful. After it was over the victorious soldiers crowded around Gen. Tserptsky, shouting his praises and even kissing his hands and feet. The Russians captured several quick-firing guns and many Japanese prisoners, including officers.

Stress of Russian Troops.

It was reported that Maj.-Gen. Gernegov of the East Siberian rifles, toward evening, had taken and held Tatchelino. Here and to the northward the Russians many times attacked by columns and battalions, turned positions with the bayonet and without firing a shot. Foreign correspondents and military attaches found language inadequate to express their admiration at the heroism of the Russian troops.

The cannonading in the neighborhood of Tatchelino is now increasing in intensity. The Japanese have brought up reinforcements and are attempting to crush Gen. Gernegov.

The Japanese are bringing up supplies by the Sianlin road and apparently are using the railroad as a line of communication.

THE CASE OF MRS. CHADWICK

Rapid Process Before Made in the Case Now on Trial at Cleveland, O.

Cleveland, O., March 8.—Nine witnesses were examined in the Chadwick trial Tuesday, and the defense established the fact that the claim of the government that Mrs. Chadwick had no money in the Ogden bank at the time of drawing checks which were certified by Spear and Beckwith, was incorrect in two instances at least.

It was shown by the general journal of the bank that on November 5, 1903, when Mrs. Chadwick received a certified check for $10,000, an entry crediting her with that amount was made on the journal of the bank, and a deposit slip for $10,000 was made up in her name. The entry and check were in the handwriting of Charles Spear. Another entry of similar nature amounting to $5,000 was also found.

THE KANSAS OIL MEN.

They Want No State Chamber Methods in the Investigation of the Standard Oil Co.

Chanute, Kas., March 8.—The oil producers are not satisfied with the method made by Congress, which the Carlisle of the bureau of corporations, as to the method to be pursued in the investigation into the Standard Oil Co. The Producers' association has written Congressman Campbell and asked him to convey to the president a request that the investigation take the form of a court of inquiry; that the hearings be advertised in the papers, and that both sides appear and tell their story. The producers, in their letter, say that this is the only way in which an impartial investigation can be made.

THE CITY CAMPAIGN IN PHILADELPHIA

Mayor Weaver and the City Government Prayed for in Evangelical Churches.

THE CITY OF BROTHERLY LOVE NEVER SAW CAMPAIGN LIKE THIS

Seeking to Bring About a Great Religious Revival, like that which Recently Brought 20,000 Sinners to Repentance in Denver, and Revolutionized the City.

Philadelphia, March 7.—Mayor Weaver and the city government of Philadelphia were publicly prayed for again Sunday in nearly all the Evangelical churches of this city.

NEITHER IN THE MEMORY OF LIVING MAN NOR IN HIS HISTORY OF THE CITY OF BROTHERLY LOVE IS THERE RECORD OF ANY CAMPAIGN LIKE THIS.

The ministers, who are aiding citizens in the effort to stamp out vicious conditions, are now trying to bring about a great religious revival like that which recently brought 20,000 sinners to repentance in Denver.

There is no trace of bitterness nor suggestion of the fierce spirit of John Knox in the prayers directed at Mayor Weaver and his administration.

The use of prayer as a weapon against the city government of Philadelphia seems all the more remarkable when one considers that Mayor Weaver is an active and earnest church worker. He was in his usual place Sunday afternoon, as he has been every Sunday for years, as leader of the Bible class in the Toga Temple Baptist church of Philadelphia.

Proper Treatment of Pneumonia.

Pneumonia is too dangerous a disease for anyone to attempt to doctor himself, although he may have the proper remedies at hand. A physician should always be called. It should be borne in mind, however, that pneumonia always results from a cold or from an attack of the grip, and that by giving Chamberlain's Cough Remedy the threatened attack of pneumonia may be ward off. This remedy is also used by physicians in the treatment of pneumonia with the best results. Dr. W. J. Smith, of Sanders, Ala., who is also a druggist, says of it: "I have been selling Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and prescribing it in my practice for the past six years. I use it in cases of pneumonia and have always gotten the best results." For sale by St. Bernard Drug Store, Earlington; E. T. Robinson, Mortons Gap; Jno. X. Taylor, Earlington.

EDUCATIONAL DEPARTMENT

NOBLE WORDS.

When'er a noble deed is wrought,
When'er is spoke a noble thought,
Our hearts, in glad surprise,
To higher levels rise.

The tidal wave of deeper souls
Into our inmost being rolls,
And lifts us unawares
Out of all meaner cares.

Honor to those words and deeds
Thus help us in our daily needs
And by their overlow
Raise us from what is low!

—LONGFELLOW.

It is not what people eat, but what they digest, that nourishes them. It is not what they read, but what they remember, that makes them learned. It is not what they profess, but what they practice, that makes them truly good.—EX.

The Marion Graded School has opened a Normal Department for the many young men and women who desire to better qualify themselves for the responsible duties of teaching. This has been quite successful in preparing young teachers for successful work in the school room.

Prof. D. W. White says: "If a child comes to school in such a state of training that he says 'come' for 'came,' 'done' for 'did,' or 'them' for 'they,' the more authority and the less grammar about it the better."

—Tarbell's Teacher Manual.

Using the Dictionary.

Probably a majority of people complete their school without knowing how to use the dictionary or without even knowing what is in the dictionary.

1. The dictionary helps in the pronunciation of words.

2. The dictionary helps us to an understanding of the meaning and shades of meanings of words.

3. The dictionary gives the derivations of words.

4. The dictionary gives us a brief history of the English language with Indo-Germanic roots in English.

5. The dictionary contains a fairly complete guide to pronunciation—orthography.

6. The dictionary contains a compact list of words spelled in two ways.

7. The dictionary contains a list of abbreviations.

8. The dictionary contains an explanatory and pronouncing list of noted names of fiction.

Reproduction of Stories.

In the most elementary work the reproduction of stories through dramatic art is effective, thus calling in to play the activities of the children. By this mean interest is whetted to a keenness often lacking in other methods, while the result is clearly an effort in language-training. Running through all dramatic effort should be freedom and spontaneity, which will lend zest to the work and insure the greatest mental activity on the part of the learner. In the lower grades of the elementary school there should be oral reproductions in abundance.

An excess of written work at too early a period results in mental paralysis. This oral work should be based upon stories well told by the teacher. The preparation of the teacher should be so thorough and the presentation of the story so complete, that interest will be manifested from the first. Unless there is interest, the reproduction will be formal and lifeless.—S. School Journal.

The University of Chicago is the recipient of another gift from John D. Rockefeller. The amount of the endowment is said to be between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000, and is to be used for the creation of a school of engineering.

The Board of Education in the City of Cincinnati, has ordered that no high heel shoes shall be worn by the pupils in the city schools, and that the nails shall be cleaned, and the teeth brushed daily.

Should a colored waiter drop a roast turkey, what effect would it have on the nations of the earth?

Answer: It would be the humiliation of Africa, the downfall of Turkey, the overthrow of Greece, and the breaking up of China.

The increased drain upon the State Treasury and common school fund owing to alleged inaccuracies, either through carelessness or design, in reports of the common school fund, has caused the Governor to take steps to stop the abuses. To this end the State Inspector and Examiner will be sent into counties where the "padding" of returns is suspected, and upon his report prosecutions will be based.

The Three Classes.

In spite of all that has been done and said, the three classes of teachers are as distinct as they were twenty years ago. There are the 'old liners' who believe the salvation of a child is obtained by his knowing how to read, spell, write, cipher, parse, and know the names of countries, cities, rivers, and mountains. There are those who have acquired the art of school keeping so as to make the machinery move with little or no friction and are thus able to make a show superior to the 'old liners'. Then there are those who have really investigated human beings and are studying to elevate their pupils morally, and see that to do this an intellectual basis is needed. This class is small, but there is encouragement in the fact that it grows larger every year.

When a young man determines he will teach or thinks of the school machinery; he remembers there were classes in his school-days in reading and spelling, and if he is a small-minded man he concludes that the work of teaching consists in the managing of such classes. If he is a very small-minded man he will settle down to be a hearer of lessons. Now lessons must be learned and recited and the 'old liners' are doing a good thing if they make their pupils learn and recite lessons in good shape. But to have a roomful of youthful persons conclude that this is the high mission of the school is a misfortune.

The real need of the human race is to-day and will be to-morrow what it was in Galilee 1904 years ago. There was great intellectual activity then; that was not the lack. There was strict attention to religious observances, far more so than to-day. One cannot read the history of those times without perceiving the struggle that was going on, whether he takes up the Gospels of Josephus. That struggle is going on to-day, but there is a clearer vision as to the means of abating it, or, at least redeeming its severity.

There is a profound need that man shall know concerning his surroundings. Duties should grow out of this knowledge. If the school merely teaches to read, spell, and cipher there is something gained. The pupil who gets something of an understanding concerning his surroundings is now competent to be impressed by some influence to advance to a higher stage of thought and life. The 'old liners' are to be respected though they have not filled their pupils with the determination to act as did the youth in Longfellow's "Excelsior." The real need of the pupil is not to know how to read and write. What a grand character was Phineas, and yet he was not able to read when thirty years of age. He had achieved greatness without knowing how to read and write; he acquired both those arts to enable him better to know and manage his surroundings.

Curing That Grippe Cough

I Grippe leaves the lungs in a sensitive condition. "Grippe Cough" is the symptom of a sudden, stubborn inflammation of the air passages that should be cured as quickly as possible.

II There's no question as to the kind of remedy needed. It must be a healing, soothing, building, strengthening preparation that will remove the cause of the trouble. Ordinary narcotic cough syrups will not answer.

III Diamond White Pine with Tar has just the action that any remedy must have to thoroughly cure Grippe Cough. It has a direct, specific effect on the mucous membrane of the air passages. We know of nothing better for coughs of this class, or, for that matter, for any kind of cough.

A hog is grateful. If you do not believe this statement, you can easily prove it. Feed him well; that is, see that he gets a variety of good foods, and enough of them. See that he has water, clean and fresh. Let him enjoy clean and warm quarters, and we think the hog will show his gratitude by making quick and cheap gains. He pays well for benefits received.—Ex.

In figuring the profits in dairying in addition to cash profits, it must be remembered that all feeds grown and fed on the farm should be figured at the price they would cost if bought in the market. The manure is considered as equal in value to the labor of caring for the cow. If she produces a calf there should be some margin over cost of raising to be placed to the credit of the cow.—American Dairyman.

Cows are creatures of habit, and this applies as much to their food as to anything else. A change of feed frequently means a falling off in the amount of milk the animals produce, and this occurs, too, in relation to the most succulent of foods. No food is considered better for cows than June grass, yet a prominent dairyman informs the writer that when his cows are changed from silage to pasture the invariably fall off temporarily in their milk flow. He says that the same is true if he changes from old to fresh silage. This should be borne in mind, especially in changing from succulent to dry feeds.—Farmers' Review.

Mutton Crops.

Sulphur, or snuff, rubbed through the fleece will destroy ticks. The best single grain for breeding sheep is oats. Bran is also good for breeding ewes to stimulate them and produce strong lambs.

Corn should be restricted to the fattening stock, and then must be fed with a nitrogenous food, such as clover hay.

Timothy hay is not suited to the needs of the sheep; digestive disorders occur when timothy hay is fed, which often results in the loss of the sheep. Clover and mixed hay will be fed to the flock with good results.

The American Farmer.

The farmers of America produce more wealth than do any other people on earth, remarks the Kansas City Journal. Last year they cleaned up nearly $5,000,000,000 on their crops. Out of the proceeds of the crop last year the farmers have paid the national debt and still have had enough money to run the Government for six or eight months. All that the gold mines of the entire world have produced since Columbus discovered America do not equal the value of the food supplies raised on American farms during the last two years, while this year's product is over six times the amount of the capital stock of all national banks; comes within 3,000,000 of equalling the value of the manufacturing of 1900, less the cost of material used; it is twice the sum of the exports and imports for a year; it is two and a half times the gross earnings from the operations of the railways; it is three and a half times the value of all mineral products in this country, including coal, iron, copper, silver and quartz, and stone.

Poultry Hints.

Never give poultry rotten or musty feed.

The brooder for ducklings should always have the heat above them. Charcoal is a blood purifier and is good to have where the chickens can get it.

If the hen stops laying change the food. It will cause them to begin again.

Poor information and little experience cause many failures in the poultry business.

A small lump of pine tar in the water trough is said to be good for the health of the fowls.

It is cheaper to hatch and raise chickens by the use of incubators and brooders than with hens.

Apple Acids.

The acids of the apple are of singular use for men of sedentary habits, whose livers are sluggish in action, those acids serving to eliminate from the body noxious matters which if retained would make the brain heavy and dull or bring about laudities or skin eruptions and other allied troubles. Some such experience must have led to the custom of taking apple sauce with roast pork, rich goose and other like dishes.

The malic acid of ripe apples, either raw or cooked, will neutralize any excess of chalky matter engendered by eating too much meat. It is also the fact that such fruits as the apple, the pear and the plum, when taken ripe and without sugar, diminish it. Their vegetable juices and acids are converted into alkaline carbonates by the chemical action of the stomach juices, which tend to counteract acidity.

Hints to Farmers.

A Kansas farmer, being asked what he did to get rid of the weeds on his farm, said that he sold most of his mutton, at three and one-half to four cents apiece.

The children of the future will wonder how the farmers made a living without being allowed to put a value on their products, just as we now wonder how they make a living with the reap hook and the flail.

And now the farmer is having an electric bell placed in connection with his rural mail box where the box is located some distance from the house, the mail carrier ringing the bell when he delivers the mail. What next?

The feeding of 100,000,000 people will be the biggest problem in this country inside of twenty-five years. A standard living has been developed under American conditions which demand much to eat and a very great variety. The teeming millions of the old world are content to live on the plainest and coarsest of food.

This legend appeared over the Pennsylvania agricultural exhibit at St. Louis:

Old brindle yielded to those who milked her $35,860,110.

Oil wells gave up to those who pumped them but $1,088,016.

The little hen turned eggs to the value of $9,890,725.

The iron mines dug out but $1,860,100.

It won't do to keep animals that don't pay their board.

The richest part of manure is the part which rain will wash out.

Twelve Angora goats can be kept upon the food consumed by one cow.

The best breed of hogs are the ones that will weigh 200 pounds the quickest.

Cubans are buying cattle in Venezuela at the rate of 100,000 head a year.

The underbrush on a farm is "done for" when a flock of Angoras is turned into it.

The boards of trade acknowledge that it is harder this year for them to manage products than ever before in history.

Isn't it queer how abundant everything is when the farmers own it, and how scarce it gets as soon as the farmers have sold out?

In Webster county, Mo., there is an apple orchard of 58,000 trees. This is probably the largest orchard of the kind in the world.

MRS. CECILIA STOWE.

Orion, State News Club.

176 Warren Avenue,

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 22, 1902.

For nearly four years I suffered from ovarian troubles. The doctor insisted on an operation as the only way to get well. I, however, strongly objected to an operation.

My husband felt disappointed as well as I, for home with a sick woman is a disagreeable place to live.

A friendly druggist advised him to get a bottle of Wine of Cardui for me to try, and he did so.

I began to improve in a few days and my recovery was very rapid. Within eighteen weeks I was another being.

Autopsy on Body of Mrs. Stanford

Revealed Strychnine.

But There Was No Presence of the Drug in the Dead Woman's Stomach.

San Francisco, March 7.—The autopsy on the body of Mrs. Jane L. Stanford has revealed every indication of strychnine poisoning except the presence of the drug in the dead woman's stomach, according to dispatches from Honolulu.

The doctors who attended the California philanthropist during her last moments are agreed that every symptom pointed to death from a large dose of strychnine. The organs of the body present the appearance indicative of the use of the same drug.

And yet there is no strychnine in the stomach. The physicians express grave doubts whether fear alone could produce such results. Yet they are at a loss for any other explanation.

DEATH RECALLS TRAGEDY.

Seattle Meeks, Sole Survivor of the Meeks Family, Murdered by the Taylors in Wisconsin.

Milan, Mo., March 7.—The death of Nellie Meeks Taylor recalls to the celebrated Meeks tragedy. She was the sole survivor of the Meeks family, murdered by George and William Taylor in 1894. William Taylor was a banker and represented Sullivan county in the legislature in 1888.

His Meeks, his wife and three children, including Nellie, the eldest, only four years old, were taken away from their home in Milan on the night of May 10, 1894, and all of the family were killed by being knuckled in the head with some blunt instrument, and their bodies buried under a strawstack, which was then set on fire, on George Taylor's farm near Browning.

It rained that night, and the stack failed to burn and little Nellie, who was only six months of age, crawled out and went to a nearby farmhouse and told of the murder.

William Taylor was hanged for the crime at Carrollton in 1895. George Taylor was under sentence for the same crime, and escaped from the Carrollton jail and has never been captured.

Nellie Meeks was married one year ago to young Albert Spry, a son of a farmer of this county.

JUDGE TAKEN TO ASYLUM.

His Mental Powers Begin to Wane, and He Is Now Violently Insane.

Salem, Mo., March 7.—A. A. Flett has been taken from his home in this county to the insane asylum at Fulton.

Mr. Flett served eight years as judge of the tenth county court, was also an associate judge at another time, and has held other positions of honor and trust.

A few years ago, while serving as judge of elections in this city, the vote of an old citizen was challenged and the discussion that followed revealed to Judge Flett that he was himself not a citizen of the United States and he also refrained from voting. Mr. Flett is about seventy years of age. A few months ago his mental powers began to wane, and he is now violently insane.

Steel Trust Increases Wages.

Pittsburg, Pa., March 7.—The Carnegie Steel Co. has given notice to its employees that beginning April 1, they will be granted an increase from 5 to 10 per cent. in wages. This is considered the opening wedge in a general movement by the Steel Trust to increase wages.
